

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

A device creates a list of electronic mails of which a state is "unread" when a viewer window for displaying a body of the received mail is displayed. When a user inputs a search indication by using a "previous unread mail" or "next unread mail" button displayed in the viewer window, the unread mail corresponding to the indication is specified, and the body of the specified unread mail is displayed in the viewer window.